

We propose a compact algorithm. Results show a measured increase. A second method is described here